One of the main responsibilities of RLs is undoubtedly to be helpful and to save user's time (Igbinovia and Solanke 2015), so they had to face to these challenging situations, to improve their competencies and to bring new and relevant services in the library.

.....

In most cases, they included quick references about the library collections, services or opening hours, support on how to search information using the traditional library catalogs, research consultation (Marcu 2006, pp.23–24).

.....

One year after the implementation of ARTHRA institutional repository of „Dunarea de Jos” University of Galati, as Bailey (2005) stated, the RL has started to play a significant role in this respect. In return, the institutional repository has been accepted as a tool to submit and promote bibliographies generated for academic purposes.
